OUR FORCES OCCUPY CORINTH.

following about the battle.

The enemy commenced their attack at 4 o'clock on Senday morning, the brigades of Gens. Sherman and Prentise being first engaged. The attack was sue poseful and our entire force was driven back to the river, where the advance of the enemy was checked by the fire of the ganboats. Our force was then insed by the arrival of Gen. Grant with the troops m Savannah, and inspirited by reports of the ar rival of two divisions of Gen. Buell's army. Our loss this day was heavy, and beside the killed and wounded, embraced our camp equipage and 36 field

The next morning our forces, now amounting to 80,000, assumed the offensive, and by 2 o'clock p. m. had retaken our camp and batteries, together with some forty of the enemy's guns and a number of prisoners, and the enemy were in full retreat, pur-sued by our victorious forces. Our casualties were aumerous, and include:

Gen. Grant, wounded in the ankle, alightly.

Gen. W. H. Wallace, killed.

Gen. Smith, severely wounded. Col. Hall, 16th Illinois, killed.

Col. Logan, 32d Illinois, wounded severely.

Col. Davis, 51st Illinois, wounded severely. Major Hunter, 32d Illinois, killed.

Col Peabody, 25th Illinois, wounded severely. Our killed, wounded, and missing are not less than Landing on Sunday and Monday says that the enemy surprised Gen. Prentise's Brigade, which was in the advance, five miles beyond Pittsburg, on Sunday morning, taking two regiments prisoners, and cap-turing the General. The fight continued the entire day, the enemy driving our forces back to Pittsburg with fearful loss.

Gen. Buell, with Gen. Nelson's division, arrived at 4 o'clock, and turned the tide of battle. The en emy was commanded by Gens, Polk and Beauregard, who suspended the attack about 6 o'clock.

On the morning of Monday, the troops having rested on the field, and being reenforced by Gen.

Nelson's division, supported by the gunboate, drove the enemy back and occupied their former position, completely routing the Rebels, who were imme-diately followed by several thousand cavalry, who as last accounts were some miles beyond Corinth.

The Tribune places our loss at from 600 to 1,000 killed, and 3,000 to 4,000 wounded. The Rebel loss is twice that number. Six of our batteries were taken and retaken six times.

The Times says that Gen. Beauregard had given orders not to destroy any of the camp equipage taken Sunday, as he expected a complete victory the next Sunday and Monday. Subscriptions of nearly half much more were raised.

Quarters for 3,000 additional prisoners at Camp

Douglas were ordered by Gen. Halleck this morning.

BEAUREGARD AT CORINTH. A correspondent, writing from Memphis to The Clarion, Mississippi, says:

Clarion, Mississippi, eays:
Our forces at Corinth and elsewhere are well atranged to take advantage of a victory which we expect will surely crown our exertions. We have now an army more formidabe in all respects than any we have yet had. Beauregard, since he came West, has been very laboriously and successfully engaged in bringing order out of disorder, and courage out of dismay. He has reorganized the whole army by displacing the old and cowardly, and those who had been tried and found wanting. Pillow and Floyd are entirely without commands, and Breckingidge has only a small brigade. Gen. Pope has been stripped of his command, and many others of the like stamp I might mention. He has arranged all his numerous capacities, where generally they are worse than useless. Some of them, as Morgan and Forrest, keep constantly harnesing the Yankee's rest, keep constantly harnssing the Yankee's kets and getting in their rear. They are acting

HARMERICAG. April 8, 1862.

The committee appointed by the Legislature to investigate alleged frauds, said to have been perpetrated upon our gallant Pennsylvania soldiers by State officers in the disbursement of the $400,000 and $3,000,000 loans, have just made their report. It is signed by every member of the committee, and concludes as follows:
